Salisbury Denounced for Letting the Guilty Ones Escape.

Labouchere Airs It in the Commons.

The Premier Charged with Corruption and Wilful Falsehood.

Stormy Debate, Ending in Labou chere Being Suspended by the House -- Other News from Abroad.

By Telegraph to The Times. LONDON, Feb. 28.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Labouchere in the Commous today spoke to his motion for inquiry into the Cleveland-street scandal. He detailed the facts of the scandal. He said that the Treasury officials, having full knowledge of the whole affair, refrained from prosecut-ing Newlive and Veck until Blackwood secretary of the Postoffice Department, had insisted upon taking action against his own subordinates. Then, finding themselves compelled to prosecute these men, the Treasury officials determined to prevent the exposure from going any further and tried to hush it up. When Hammond fled to Belgium no legal difficulty lay in the way of securing his extradition, but Salis-bury, through the Treasury officials, wrote way of securing his extradition, but Salisbury, through the Třeasury officials, wrote declaring that he could not ask his extradition. Hammond went to America, and in this, as to information and otherwise, he was again assisted through Newton, solicitor of Lord Somerset. The object of the government was obviously to hunt Hammond beyond the range of extradition. When the Chief of Police reported to the Treasury evidence in the hands of the police involving Lord Somerset and others, the Tre sury ordered the police to desist from watching the case, and Somerset obtained at the Horse Guards four months' leave of absence, to en ble lim to quit the country. But he did not quit the country, and Salisbury, being informed of this through Sir Dixhton Probyn, stated that a warrant would be issued, but he caused his decision to become known to Lord Somerset's commanding officer, through whom this information was conveyed to Somerset. Thereupon Somerset field. He was not only allowed to resign his commission and leave the army as an honorable officer, but at this moment is still a maxistrate in two counties. Labouchere said Solisbury and others criminally conspired to defeat the ends of justice; therefore, he asked that a committee inquire into the allegations.

Webster, Attorney-General, said he believed the House would agree with him that there was not a shadow of foundation for these disgraceful charges. It was absurd to suppose that Salisbury or the Treasury officials could have an interest in retarding the prosecution of this case. In conclusion, a said he hammer had dreve surrority to contradict the allegation that Salisbury had appoken to any one regarding the Issue of a warrant.

Labouchere said he could not accept Webster's assurance, nor did he believe Salisbury, whose denials were obviously untrue.

The chairman requested Labouchere to withdraw his words calling into question dence.

Other members having demanded a committee of inquiry, Smith, on behalf of the government, declined to allow persons against whom there was no evidence to be pilloried and gibbeted and perhaps ruined.

A minding to report progress was loss by 2021 to 82.

The chairman then put Labouchere's amendment proposing a reduction of the credit, and Smith moved a cloture. This the chairman declined to put.

The discussion continued, and finally, under a cioture proposed by another mem ber, Labouchere's amendment was rejected.

in the Cenaus Bureau when it was known that Shidy, as secretary of the board of lecal examiners of the Milwaukee postoffice, had persistently and repeatedly violated his oath of office in making faise certifications and not reporting violations of the civil service law.

Shidy testified that there were irregularities in the Milwaukee postoffice which the hist making the postmaster to be paramount. This postmister was Paul, an appointee of the last administration. Shidy said it was made part of his duty under Paul to two-ture? records so as to make some certifications improperly. Paul had free access to all lists, and at times revised examination papers to change the percentage of applicants.

New Pass Through the Rockies.
St. PAUL, Feb. 28.—It is reported that President Hill of the Great Northern proposes to run a line from Anaconda, Mont, direct to San Francisco. Surveyors of the Great Northern are reported to have made a discovery which will ravolutionize railway travel in the Northwest. The discovery consists of a break in the Rocky Mountains near Mary's Fork, which thus opens a way into the rich and fertile country through which no road has ever penetrated.

EX-CONGRESSMAN TAULBEE OF KENTUCKY SHOT,

Because He Pulled the Nose of a Washington Correspondent Who Had Published an Unsayory Scandal,

By Telegraph to The Times. WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. - [By the Associ ated Press.] Ex-Congressman Taulbee was shot through the head today by Charles Kincaid, correspondent of the nan Tanibee Louisville Times.

Both are Kentuckians. The trouble was caused by the ex Congressman, who pulled the correspondent's nose for publishing cershooting occurred outside the Capitol, near the southeastern entrance to the building. Kincaid is sight built, inoffensive-looking and 83 years old. He was formerly Judge of one of the Louisville courts. His family is one of the best known in Kentucky.

is one of the best known in Kentucky.

The wounded man came from one of the mountain districts of Kentucky. He is 59 years old, tail, snewy, strongly built and lean. He soon became known in the Model as a ready tailer and was more frequently on its feet than any other young member. He had an immensely powerfur vuoc, and in the tunnut waten sometimes occurred in the House he could always be heard above the din. He was a member of the Forty-ninth and Fiftleth Congresses.

He was taken to the hospital. The wound is very dangerous. Kincaid was arrested.

to escape and freely acknowledged the shooting.
Kincaid says that Taulbee has been bounding him for more than a year past, and several times insulted him. He circulated stories that he was a coward and afraid to meet him (Taulbee). These reports, in his nervous state, so overwrought him that he hardly knew what he was doing. He also understood that Taulbee threatened him with violence. Today Taulbee assaulted him, and pulled his nose and ear, and this was more than he could endure.

and ear, and this was more than he could endure.

Kincaid was seen by an Associated Press reporter tonight. He said the statement that he approached Taulbee from benind and fired without giving him warning was false. This statement was also denied by others who were near when the shet was fired. It is stated by Kincaid's friends that Taulbee repeatedly assaulted him, besides using extremely insulting languing toward him. From the number and prominence of the people who called at the poice station this evening to offer aid it is evident that Kincaid is not without friends.

At the hospital the reporter was told by the doctors who are in attendance upon Taulbee that their patient's general condition was quite favorable, and he was doing even better than could have been reasonably expected.

The libel suit of W. A. Ray of Pasa-BETHANY PRESBYTERIAN dena against the Times-Mirror Com-pany was begun yesterday morning before Judge Lucien Shaw, in Department No. 5 of the Superior Court. The plaintiff is an elderly man, and has sued THE TIMES for $50,000 on account of an article published in the paper March 7, 1889.

The article referred to the rumored relations of "a well-known Pasadens banker" with two women. It stated that an old lady from Oakland established herself in a fashionable boarding-house in Pasadens, and was soon followed by a handsome young lady whom she introduced as her daughter; followed by a handsome young lady whom she introduced as her daughter; that it was whispered about that the banker paid her "marked attentions," and after a time rumor had it that the young woman "was shortly to become a mother," and that the banker was liable to be sued for seduction, but that it was said to be a blackmailing scheme put up by the woman. The article referred to the fact that the banker is, or was then, a member of the Young Men's Christian Association, a member of the Prohibition tion, a member of the Prohibition party and a church member, and venparty and a church member, and ventured to suggest that if the rumor was true, the actor in those several roles had need of regeneration, or words to that effect.

Although the banker's name was not mentioned, W. A. Ray promptly put the cap upon his head and sued THE TIMES for libel, and the case has been pending eyes time.

THE TIMES for libel, and the case has been pending ever since.

When the case was called yesterday morning there was quite a crowd of spectators in attendance. The defendant was represented by Stephen M. White, Esq., and H. T. Gage, Esq., and the plaintiff by W. T. Williams, Esq., and Messrs. Metcalfe & McLachlan.

Before any jurors were called into the box for examination as to their qualifications, Mr. White stated to the Court that he would like, if possible, to have the jury impaneled and then adjourn the trial until Monday. In support of his request he said Mr. Gage would be engaged all day in a jury trial in another court, one of the witnesses for the defense is absent and will not return until Monday, and certain depositions from Chicago have not yet arrived.

When the last item was mentioned Mr. Ray pricked up his ears, and moved around where he could hear better. His counsel made no objections to the request, and the work of selecting the jury began.

The examination was not enlivened by that elephantine jocoseness which usually characterizes the legal appearance of "El Toro." He contented himself with monotonously respectable ance of "El Toro." He contented himself with monotonously respectable questions to the jurors. To each one he addressed the usual questions as to place of residence and occupation, and then if he is accessed. The Col. He came near drawing the line at one man who said he was born in Missouri, but thought better of it until he said he is a subscriber of The Times, and let him go. After this he asked each ene about being a subscriber to the paper, but as all but two or three stated that they are subscribers, and he had only four peremptory challenges, he was obliged. are subscribers, and he had only four peremptory challenges, he was obliged to let that objection pass.

Abbott, E. A. de Camp, A. C. Harper, Henderson Cheney, E. E. Cox, W. B. Kemper, James C. Garnett, J. A. Forthman, J. Entwistle.

Mr. White excused Jesse Yarnell, Jesse B. Graham, J. H. Bryan and J. L. Dougherty; and the plaintiff excused A. Fuhrberg, O. W. Childs, Jr., E. E. Hall and F. M. Matthews.

Allen Manvel, president of the Santa Fé system, is again on his way to Southern California. Mr. Manvel was out here a short time ago, just after his election, and it is a little surprising to railroad men that he should return so soon. The boys about the Santa Fé not guilty to the charge of blackmailing Justice Savage.

August Freudenberg, a native of Germany, was admitted to citizenship yesterday by Judge Van Dyke.

Sai Foo was arraigned before Justice Savage yesterday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. He hit Wong Lung over the head with a revolver several days ago, in a dispute over some money owed to him by Wong Lung, and inflicted injuries from which the latter may die. His bond was fixed at $5000 and his examination for March 7th. He went to jail, being so soon. The boys about the Santa Fé offices tell a good story about how Mr.
Manvel pulled off his coat and went to work when his train butted up against the big washout, near Winslow, on the line of the Atlantic and Pacific, last March 7th. He went to jail, being unable to furnish the bail. The case of C. C. Jaxthiemer, charged The case of C. C. Jaxthiemer, charged with practicing medicine without a license, was continued yesterday by Justice Savage until Monday.

United States District Attorney Cole is now domiciled in his new office at the corner of Main and Commercial streets, in the United States Court building. He will enter upon the discharge of his duties upon the return of Judge Ross from San Francisco.

United States Marshal George E. Gard has received his commission and Sunday. Mr. Manvel left his snug coach as soon as the train stopped, and in a few minutes he was as hard at work as any section-hand in the emat work as any section-hand in the employ of his company. But few of the men knew Mr. Mauvel by sight even, and when they saw him, shovel in hand, they thought he was a new section boss from some other road. It was mainly through Mr. Manvel's energy that the road was opened as soon as it was, for no one who viewed the washout believed it could be repaired inside of a week. Even after Mr. Manvel got the road cleared so that his train could pass he would not desert the men who had worked so faithfully with him in water and mud up to their waists, but stayed with them until the road was in perfect condition. Gard has received his commission and forwarded, and as soon as approved at Washington he will take charge of the til the road was in perfect condition.

It is evident that some of the operators who sent out dispatches to the effect that the road would not be open for a week did not know what kind of stuff Mr. Manvel is made of. During the next two weeks quite a number of prominent railroad men will visit Los Angeles. They will come from all over the United States to attend the meeting of the Transcontinental Association, which will convene at Hotel del Coronado on the 16th Inst. When the bonds were ready for His Honor's signature, he declined to affix it, unless the money should be deposited in the vaults of the City Treasury. He told the Treasurer plainly that, as there was already $306,000 of the city funds in the hands of banks that were paying no interest for its use, and for which the city had no security, while another bank stood ready and anxious to pay 5 per cent. interest, and secure the city by a half-million-dollar bond, he did not feel justified in adding to the amount. ciation will be settled. One of the most important matters to come before the association will be the motion on the part of several of the roads west of the Missouri River to abolish round-trip tickets to the Pacific Coast. The Southers Pacific and the Santa Fé will make a hard-fight against this move, and it is to be hoped that they will get away with the fight, for thousands of people visit the coast now who would not come if they could not get round-trip rates. The following roads will be represented in the convention: The Santa Fé, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Burlington, Northwestern. There came near being a serious accident at the Santa Fé depot yesterday afternoon, when freight train No. 148 pulled into the yards. Engineer Russell left his cab to register in the train dispatcher's office, and left the engine in charge of the fireman. The engineer had hardly turned his back when the fireman thought he would test the speed of the engine, so he started her up and in a couple seconds when the Breman thought he would test the speed of the engine, so he started her up and in a couple seconds she was speeding across the yards at a fearful rate. The engineer heard the puffing, and looked around just in time to see his engine making off. He started on the dead run after the engine, which had been uncoupled from the train, yelling at the top of his voice to the fireman to stop her. The yard master did the same thing, but the festive fireman was bent on having a good time, and the chances are that he would have been going yet could he have reached the main line. A switch headed him off, and before he knew where he was, the engine was floundering in the mud and he was picking himself up. Fortunately, but little damage was done. The engine escaped injury when it jumped the track, and the wild fireman got off with a few bruises. He had no explanting other than the test. with a few bruises. He had no explanation, other than that he wished to see if he could run an engine alone. He got his information, but it is doubtful whether he will ever ride on another engine, for he was discharged in about five minutes.

Day before yesterday one of the worst sandstorms ever known in Arizona was raging along the line of the Atlantic and Pacific, in the vicinity of Flagstaff. The track was covered with sand for miles, and had to be shoveled off before the trains could pass. The trains were delayed 24. hours. People who were in the storm say it was the most terrible sight they ever witnessed. Trains were compelled to tie up as soon as the storm struck them, and for a while it looked as if much damage would be done.

PARK COMMISSION.

Becoming Restive Under a Nig-gardly Policy.

The Park Commissioners met at the Mayor's office last night with Commissioner Wicks in the chair and Commissioners Bryant and Hubbell present Supt. Legrand was also in attendance as usual.

The pay-roll for February, amount ing to $1651.13, was approved as follows: Westlake Park, $554.68; East Los Angeles Park, $499 25; Elysian, $222.96; Sixth street, $130; Prospect, 65; nursery, $94.

Supt. Legrand presented two bills for hay, one for $5.60 and another for $2.65, saying that he had been com-pelled to pay for the hay before he could get it, but that when he presented the bills to the Finance mittee it refused to have anything o do with them.

At this point Mayor Hazard entered. but took no part in the proceedings, and retired to his private office with Dr. Hagan, who was also present. Commissioner Bryant moved that the Clerk call the attention of the Finance Committee to ordinance No. 4, and re quest that it approve the bills for hay incurred by the Superintendent which motion was carried. which motion was carried.

Commissioner Wicks remarked that the action of the Council in refusing to pay the bills incurred by the commissioners, and in expecting skilled artisans like the Superintendent to work for the same wages as ordinary day laborers, was getting monotonous, and he, for one, was in favor of bringing the matter to the attention of the Governor, and asking him to appoint the commissioners under the State law.

Commissioner Bryant thought that if the Council still refused to pay the bills they should apply for writs of mandamus and also call the attention of the Governor to the state of affairs commissioner Bryant then took the floor on the Westlake Park. He said that the wall on the nortuside of the park, on Ward street, which is an absolute necessity, can not be completed because the Council refused to purchase a few barrels of lime and cement, and, after some discussion, on nis motion, the Superintendent was instructed to purchase five barrels of cement and 10 barrels of lime. Two lawn-mowers, he said, are also needed for the Westlake Park at once, and water-closets are also an absolute ne-cessity, and, on motion, the Superin-tendent of Parks was instructed to see about having the closets constructed.

Commissioner Bryant stated that on Sunday last, notwithstanding the cold weather, 104 persons were counted in the Westlake Park, and more seats are the Westlake Park, and more seats are needed for their accommodation. On motion, the Superintendent was instructed to procure, sufficient lember for 12 seats. Mr. Bryant also called up the matter of the approaches to the Westlake Park, and, after some discussion, he was instructed to confer with Contractor French in regard to the approach on the west side.

The Westlake matter continued for some time further, and Commissioner Bryant thought, as there are now two Bryant thought, as there are now two teams employed in that park, it would be a matter of economy to purchase a horse and cart, and he was appointed a committee of one to look after that matter.

The question of planting trees along Seventh street was then discussed at considerable length, and Commissioner Bryant brought up the matter of the boathouse at that point. The summer is coming on, he said, and the foundation and flooring of the permanet boathouse should be built, and an awning erected over the same until the stru-ture could be completed. This would cost, he said, about $150, and he f vored the expenditure, but no action was taken.

The proposition of Surveyor-General Hammond, to give the board as many trees as it desired from the Golden Gate Park of San Francisco, if it would pay the expenses of shipping, was then taken up, and, after discus-sion, Commissioners Hubbell and Bryant were appointed a committee to consult with the Governor on the matter, and it was agreed to appropriate $100 for expenses, and, if everything is satisfactory, Supt. Legrand will be sent to San Francisco to select such trees as are wanted.

The board then adjourned until this morning at 8:30 o'clock, when its mem-bers will meet at Westlake Park, to see about the planting of trees at that

NO INSURANCE WAR.

The Threatened Breach in the Union Averted.

The insurance war which was threatened by the New Zealand Company and the insurance union will eventuate, at least not now. A meeting of the union was held in San Francisco last Wednesday, when Mr. Craig, general agent of the New Zealand, backed down from his position, and the breach was bridged over. The question at issue was the right claimed by the New Zealand to employ as many agents on salary as it pleased. This right was salary as it pleased. This right was contested under the rules of the union. At no time was the question of rates at issue in Los Angeles, and unless the New Zealand went out of the union their was no prospect of a cut under the compromise just effected. Peace has also been restored in Oakland, where a cut has been in progress for saveral weeks. for several weeks.

Went by Default.

Yesterday morning at 9 o'clock the case of Charles Fisher, charged with adultery, was called in Justice Lockwood's court. Fisher was arrested some time ago on the complaint of a man named Houston, who charged him with living in adultery with his him with living in adultery with his wife. Fisher gave bond for his appearance and the matter was lost sight of. Yesterday morning when the case was called none of the prosecuting witnesses answered to their names, and Justice Lockwood continued the hearing until 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At the latter hour Deputy Constable Rogers reported that he had made thorough search for the parties, but they could not be found, and as their was no evidence against Fisher, the Justice ordered his discharge.

Later in the day it was learned that Houston and his wife had made up their differences and left the city together.

OVER A LAND QUARREL IN CASTACA CANON

in the quarrel to the extent of having two of the Chormicle boys arrested for tearing down his fence, but he claims to have had nothing to do with the shooting of yesterday. To a Times reporter Mr. George gave the following account of the tragedy:

"Three days ago George Waltham, a young man who has been in the settlement about three months, hauled some lumber to section 23, on which he had filed a homestead. The land is rallroad land, but there is a dispute between the Government and the raliroad company, and this dispute, has caused all the trouble in that part of the country. This same section is claimed by W. C. Chormicle, who owns a large tract in the neighborhood. To reach section 23 Waltham has to pass a shanty ou the section just below 23 which was put up by Chormicle. The lumber was hauled there three days ago, but before Waltham could put up his shanty. This created hard feelings between the two José Olme and D. Cook to assist him to haul his lumber to the spot where he washed to build.

José Olme and D. Cook to assist him to haul his lumber to the spot where he wished to build.

"They got two wagons, but before they had loaded them Chormicle and W. A. Gardner appeared on the scene, and a quarrel took place between Waitham and Chormicle. They finally came to blows, and Waltham struck Chormicle in the face. Before any serious damage was done, however. Olme and Cook separated them. Gardner was armed with a rifle, and raised it, but Olme claims that he made him put it down. Chormicle and Gardner then went to Chormicle's shanty, and the three men loaded their wagons and passed within a few yards of the shanty to where Waltham intended to build.

Waltham intended to build.

"They soon unloaded and passed by the lumber pile. In a short time they had loaded their wagons a second time, and started off with Waltham's wagon in the lead. O me was seated on Waltham's wagon next to that individual but furtnest from the shanty. Cook was a lew yards behind them, and as the first wagon reached a point opposite the shanty, Chormicle and Gardner appeared at the window armed with rifles and pistols and opened fire on the wagons. Waltham fell from the wagon riddled with builets, and Cook fell over on his seat with a builet hole through his left shoulder and into his body. He died in about three hours afterward, and waltham died aimost instantly.

hours afterward, and Waltuam died aimest instantly.

"Clime assued in a most singular way. When the firing began, Waltham, who was between him and the shanty, and the shock, when Waltham was struck, caused his body to fall against Olme, throwing him to the ground. Olme picked himself up almost instantly and ran back to Cook's wagon. A number of shots were fired at him while he was running, but he escaped, and reached the horses in safety. He saw that Cook had been shot, and, just as he reached the heads of the horses, they started to run away. He grabbed the harness of the horse furthest from the shanty, and ran along by his side past the house. The firing was still kept up, and the horses were struck several times, but they shielded Olme, and he escaped without a scratch. He was the only witness to the shooting, and is of the opinion that fire was opened on both wagons at the same time.

"As soon as the last shot had been opened on both wagons at the same time.

"As soon as the last shot had been "As soon as the last shot had been fired. Chormicle and Gardner rushed out of the shanty and made for their saddle horses, which were hitched near by, and made off up the cañon as fast as they could go.

"The news of the tragedy spread like wildfre, and in a short time the whole neighborhood was aroused. Some one started for Newhall to notify the constables; and at 1:30 they were on the track of the murderers, but, when I left. no trace of them had been found, and I don't think they have been arrested.

"When I reached the scene of the tragedy, I found that Cook was still alive, and, from the looks of his wound, we thought he would recover. His wound was dressed, and all that was possible was done for him, but he died in about three hours after the shooting. Only one ball struck him, and, as near as I can judge, it passed near the heart.

"Waitham was dead when we reached him, so we did not disturb him, but left his remains for the Coroner; so I do not know how many times he was shot, but he looked as if he had been riddled.

"There were no arms about the murdered men, and I am sure they were not armed. Olme was not armed, and he says that if his party had been they would not have had a chance to use their weapons, as they were not expecting an assault, and Waitham was killed instantly.

"When they passed with the first load and the men in the cabin did not molest them, they thought there would be no further trouble.

"There was considerable excitement, and the citzens did all in their power to assist the officers in making the arrest, but the murderers were on good horses, and the chances are that they were some distance up in the mountains when the officers reached the scene of the shooting.

The neighbors expected trouble for some time, but they did not think it would end so seriously. The land dispute should have been settled by the Government long ago, for ut present we don't know who to look to for our titles, for some claim their land under the Government, while others hold under a rallroad title.

"Waltham wes only about 25 years of age. He came there from San Diego about three months ago, but I think he has only been out here from the East a short time. He was a single man, stood high and was well liked by all who knew him.

"Cook was a married man and leaves a widow and four children. He was shout 35 years old, and owns quite a nice little home. He was part Spanish, and s at Santa Paula, where he spends the most of his time, while his wife and several of his sons run the ranch in the cañon a short distance from where the shooting took place. He has always stood well, and up to the other day he has taken but little interest in the quarrels.

George Waltham and D. Cook Shot by W. C. Chormicle—The Men Lose Their Lives in Attempting to Put a Shanty on a Government Claim.

The quarrel in Castaca Cafion, near Newhall, between the Chormicles and several other settlers on railroad lands came to a bloody ending yesterday morning, when two men met death.

The news was brought to this city by W. H. George, who has taken a hand in the quarrel to the extent of having two of the Chormicle boys arrested for the shooting, is about 25 years of age. He lives with his tather on their ranch near by, and has always borne an excellent reputation. He is a single man and has never to my knowledge been in trouble before. Why he should have been drawn into this by Chormicle is a mystery to everybody. They were not particularly good friends before, and I can't understand it.

do not intend to surrender unless they are caucht.

This double murder is one of the baddest affairs that has occurred in this county for some time. It is possible that there is arrother side to the story, for Chormicle and George caunot be the best of friends under the existing circumstances, and George may have colored his narative to a certain extent.

Officers and detectives will visit the scene today, and further developments are expected.

Mr.J.C.R. binson, Vice-President and Superintendent Los Angeles Cable Ra luny Company.—Dear Sir: Through force of circumstances, I might say, I have committed an offense, which L. confess is almost beyond forgiveness. Stilt, Mr. Robinson, I sincerely hope you will forgive me, and allow me one more opportunity of showing to you my appreciation of your kindness toward me in the past, for you have been kind and have trusted me more than I could reasonably expect, and I have by my actions betrayed that kindness when you had every right to expect faithfulness of me in everything pertaining to your or the company's interest, I do claim that up to the time of my becoming a member of the Gripmen's Benevolent Association, I tried to showboy the faithful discharge of my duties that I had the interests of your-self and the company a theart; but since my duties that I had the interests of yourself and the company at heart; but since that time, I housestly confess that I have acted footishly, rashly and unbecoming a

Still, I sillowed knowledge of this to work on my feelings and interests to that extent that I have been guilty of conduct unbecoming a member of any association, or an employé of any company. This, Mr. Robinson, is the first union I ever belonged to, and I pledge you my word as a man that it will be the last. I will never join another unless it meets with the approval of the company by which I may be employed. This is the first letter I have ever written to an employer, and I think it a poor one; but I do hope you will forgive me, and allow me another chance to show to you beyond doubt that I can and will be a faithful servant to the company, and capable of showing you the respect due you, as vice-president and superintendent.

Michael to Be Tried.

The trial of Michael Whaling, the member of the Board of Education are rested for disturbing the peace at the Spring-street school, is set for 2 o'clock this afternoon before Justice Lock this afternoon before Justice Lockwood, and promises to be a notable event. Michael was busy all day yesterday in getting his witnesses, and about one hundred, more or less, have been subpœnaed, including the pupils in one of the rooms of the building where he made a speech on the day he was said to have acted so disgracefully. The teachers in the Spring-street school are determined to push the case against the able Michael, and all the witnesses of his antics on the occasion complained of will be on hand. Standing room will be at a premium, as the caspacity of the courtroom is not large capacity of the courtroom is not large enough to accommodate the witnesses.

THE LABOR CONFERENCE.

The programme which is to form the basis of the labors and inquiries of the International Labor Conference has been issued by the Swiss government. It contains the following important points, the deliberations upon which will attract the interested attention of social reformers in this country as well as in Europe:

as in Europe:

1. In what degree, if at all, should the State restrict Suuday work?

2. What is the minimum age below which the employment of children in factories should be prohibited?

3. What should be fixed as a maximum day's work for workmen or women under full age?

4. Should the hours of compulsory attendance at school, which are now required by law, be counted as part of a day's work for juvenile workers?

5. Should the maximum length of a day's work for juvenile workers?

6. What restrictions are necessary in the employment of women and children in unhealthy and dangerous occupations?

7. Should the State permit the employment of women and children in occupations of the state permit the employment of women and children in occupations carried on at night time?

8. How can the State best put into effect and enforce the labor regulations it makes?

Finally, the programme submits to the conference the proposition for periodical labor conferences, which will become an established institution if this conference approves the idea.

TOU INSANE MATTERS.

The Insane Asylum Commissioners have selected the Daley tract, of 438 acres with 80 inches of Bear Valley water to be piped to the grounds. The sum to be paid is $159,000. This land is taken right out of the very heart of the citrus belt of lands along the foot of the mountains northeast of San Bernardino. The tract includes a bearing orange orchard of 10 acres and 20 acres of orchard and vineyard, besides some other improvements. Now Gov. Waterman has to be heard from in the matter. It is slow business. Meantime the number of suicides constantly increasing, not only in Cali-fornia and the United States, but throughout the world. There were 2308 suicides in England last year which is the largest number ever recorded. The increasing severity of the struggle for wealth-or even existenceprobably responsible for a large portion of this increase. This view of the case is confirmed by the fact that male suicides largely outnumber the females.

This company made three proposal for the privilege. The one accepted by the Secretary is known as bid No. 11, and differs from the other two in being an offer without conditions. Among other things, the company agrees, as far as may be practicable and consistent with its interests, to encourage the dressing, dyeing and marketing of sealskins within the United States. The annual revenue to the Government under this lease, on a basis of 100,000 seals per annum, will be about one million dollars, as against about three hundred thousand dollars under the present lease to the Alaska Commercial Company.

Judging from the general current of public opinion on the sewer question, it may be stated that the outlook a present is that the interior system will voted; that the storm-drains may be voted, and that the Ballona outfall will surely be rejected. AMUSEMENTS.

PAVILION.—The entertal ament last night, advertised as "Fowler's Tableaux d'Art," was attended by a small-sized audience, which looked smaller than it really was in the spacious auditorium of the Pavilion. The atmosphere was, in fact, chilly, and the attempt of Mr. Durrell to warm it up with attempt of Mr. Durrell to warm it up with comic recitations was unsuccessful, as were the vocal efforts of two ladles, unannounced. Mr. Durrell has talent, and under more favorable circumstances could not fail to please his audience. His only selection that was open to criticism was the one from "Mark Twain," and in that the coarseness of the theme quite overcaine the cierness of the rendition.

The Deisartean theory of expression was illustrated by the movements of seven ladles clad in classic robes of white, with "angel" sleeves. They exercised and posed in unison, but were so clumsily grouped, one behind another, that only the m-vements of the three in front were discernible; the rest might as well have been off the stage. The visible ones made a graceful display of the might as well have been off the stage. The visible ones made a graceful display of the work done by the hands, arms and upper part of the body, but from the nature of helir costumes it was difficult by gather any information as to their knowledge of correct poise, and, judging from some of the concluding tableaux, this is the weak point of helir teaching. The exhibition is too mechanical to be called a fair illustration of the Delsartean theory of expression, and while the drill might be considered highly creditable to a group of boarding-school misses, it has not, especially in the tableaux, enough of originality and variety to capture a cultivated audience. A matinée is announced for today, and the concluding performance will be given tonight.

Ex-Congressman Calkins of Indiana, who was appointed to a judgeship in Washington by President Harrison, is about to begin an active campaign to supplant Mr. Squire in the United States Senate a year hence.

The Senate has now confirmed Mr. Morgan as Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and Mr. Dorchester as Superintendent of Indian Schools, by a large majority. A Washington corre-spondent says: "The majority is as much a surprise to the friends of both much a surprise to the friends of both of these gentlemen as it is to their opponents. It is only within a few days that Republican opponents of Mr. Morgan went about the Capitol showing a roll-call of the Republicans and Democrats who they were assured would vote against the confirmation of both of these gentlemen. This roll-call showed a majority of 14 against confirmation. But the fact is that confirmation. But the fact is that Morgan was confirmed by nearly a two-thirds majority. The most active opponents—the only opponents of these two officials whose charges were deemed worthy of any extent of consideration worthy of any extent of consideration—were those who were acting in the interests of the Catholic Church. The Democrats who sought to take advantage of the disaffection of a few extreme members of the Catholic Church, including one or two editors whose publications have been both false and malicious, overshot the mark. The effect of their persecution of Mr. Morgan and Dr. Dorchester has been to array in the favor of these two officials a very aggressive organized Protestant force."

A Nervy Driver.

What might have been a serious runway yesterday morning was prevented by the presence of mind of a young man who was driving the team. The horses belonging to the Temple-street engine were hitched to a wagon to do some hauling, and when on Bellevue avenue, just off Beaudry avenue, the harness became loosened, and the horses started on a dead run down the avenue toward Maine street. The driver held to the lines, and was pulled over the dash board, but did not release his hold on the reins. He rode on the tongue of the wagon, still holding the horses, and when near Philadelphia street stopped the runaways by turning them against a high eibankment. No damage was done, as the team was kept in the street until it was stopped.

THE FAIR.

Notes of Co-operation from Every Orange county has finally consented to come into the Citrus Fair, and now the circuit is complete. All of the citrus fruit-growing counties in the Sixth District have secured space, and will do all in their power to make the fair a success.

Secretary Gray is very anxious to have a school children's day, and sug-gests that the schools close Wednesday afternoon, as that will be the best day on which to receive the little ones.

This afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the Executive Committee of the Citrus Fair Committee will meet in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of choosing judges. Unlike a majority of fairs, the judges are expected to examine the fruit on Tuesday before it gets stale, and make up the list of awards as soon as possible While the examination is in progress the doors will be shut to the public, so that the committees will have plenty of time to make a thorough examina-

THE ARIZONA DISASTER.

Burying the Victims-Another Dam to Be Built. PRESCOTT (Ariz.), Feb. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] The work of burying the victims of the late disaster is about completed. Thirty-nine bodies were recov-ered and identified, while ten more persons are known to have been lost damaged. No loss of life occurred there, as was feared, the people being on the watch for the flood. It is impossible here to fix the responsibility of the accident, further than that the dam was not regarded as properly constructed. The company's property now consists of the dam site and placer bars below. The prospect of recovering damages is very slight.

Plans for mother water storage enterprise were well under way when the recent disaster happened. The parties who are interested in it state that the construction of the dam will be under the supervision of the most skilled and competent engineers. That provision had not been made. With regard to the Associated Press, he was glad to hear what the Senator from Connecticut (Mr. Hawley) said, but he had been told by responsible newspaper men that it is not true.

The matter them dropped, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the bill reported from the Committee on Pensions on the 15th of January, granting pensions to ex-soldiers and sailors incapacitated for performing manual laber, and providing for pensions to the dependent relatives of decased soldiers and sailors.

Mr. Davis, chairman of the Committee on Pensions, addressed the Senate in explansion of the bill. The ansural expensional the bill would be $35, 905,000, divided through in the pensioners, widows whose claims are pending or rejected, children of widows and children claiming under pending bills.

Mr. Plumb offered a substitute for the second section under which no pensioner would receive less than $5 per month.

Mr. Moody spoke arainst the substitute and Mr. Vest opposed the bill. One of its inconsistencies, Mr. Vest said, was that a parent who could not support himself by manual labor, but who might by mental or clerical work earn five, ten or twenty thousand dollars a year, would be entitled to a pension under it. WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] A number of persons interested in postal telegraphy assembled in the room of the House Postoffice Committee this morning to listen to Dr.—Noryin Green, westedned to the Western Lines Company. president of the Western Union Company.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker, with Assistant Attorney-General Tyner, Gardner Hubbard, and representatives of the different telegraph companies were present.

Dr. Green began his remarks by discussing the marits and demerits of Furocean

Dr. Green began his remarks by discussing the merits and demerits of European government telegraph systems. He said while in instances their charges were lower than those in the United States, they were conducted at a loss. He presented a table showing that the domestic companies had 18,000 stations and handled over sixty million messages annually against 53,000 stations and 173,000,000 messages in the rest of the world. The Western Union controlled ten-elevenths of this business in the United States. The stock was held by 3550 persons in the United States, 1141 of them females.

Dr. Green believed the United States Government had no business with the management of the telegraph. It could not manage it as cheaply; it could not do it better, and none of the senders of telegrams had saked it. It was proposed to make a rate of one-half of the cost of sending messages, and the deficiency would have to be made up by 57,000,000 people who did not use the telegraph. The receipts of the New York office of the Western Union included $700,000 annually from poolrooms and sporting places. A large class of telegraph asporting places. A large class of telegraph asporting places. A large class of telegraph users were stock-brokers and speculators. Were those the people who were to be protected? Were those the people were to be taxed? If the Government wanted to go into the telegraph business, it should buy the lines outright. It should not seek to fix losing rates for existing companies; that would not be fair to the $500 stockholders of the Western Union. The Government would need twice as many lines as were now in existence to do business. Here was a scheme presented to go to 447 postoffices, where there was free delivery and where there were abundant telegraph facilities. This was the way the Postmaster General proposed to supply the needs of $5,000,000 people. This was the entering wedge of a movement to break down the present companies and establish a complete Government telegraph, and against that he protested.

Dr. Green then made a comparison between the American and English telegraph systems. He maintained that our rates in reality (taking into account free addresses and signatures and the enormous area of territory covered) are much lower than the English low rates. Yet it was proposed to territory covered are much lower than the English low rates. Yet it was proposed to the country the former were 50 per cent. More and the country there were more telegraph offices, the following stress of the times? In North Carolina the Western Union had telegraph offices, the Government owned but 104 post their business, as it would include the great money centers of the country.

The chairman said that it was proposed to pay the operators out of the 2-cent charge for the postage stamp. He would like to know what the operating cost was.

Dr. Green replied that a close estimate placed it at 3 cents per message; in cases of long-distance messages, it ran up to 9 cents. The average compensation of first-class operators was $75 a month.

The chairman wished to know how the rates suggested by the Postmaster-General compared with the present rates.

Dr. Green replied that generally they were two-diths lower. In case of long distance messages they were one-half lower. The average message was 21 words including addresses and signatures. It was preferable to continue the system of free addresses to insure accurate delivery. Under the English system where the addresses were charged for the addresses were charged for the addresses were cramped and messages frequently failed_in delivery.

To the broad question as to how the Post-cramped and messages frequently failed_In delivery.

To the broad question as to how the Postmaster-General's plas appeared to him, as a business proposition, Dr. Green said that of course it could be carried out, but the business could not be done by the Government or a corporation at a profit, and somebody would have to make up a deficiency.

Representative Crain wished to know why, if the bill was impracticable, Dr. Green and the president of the Postal Telegraph Company both appeared here to contend against it.

Dr. Green replied that it was a serious matter for them. They did not wish to be placed in competition with the United States Treasury. The Government could afford to bear the loss.

Mr. Crain: But the bill now provide for that.

Mr. Crain: But the bill now provides for that.

Dr. Green: It will have to provide for that.

You will be asked for an appropriation within a year.

Mr. Crain remarked that if no company would contract with the Government, the bill could do them no harm.

The chairman at this point intervened to say that Dr. Green did not appear at his own instance, but at the request of the committee, but the Dector, continuing his reply to Mr. Crain's query, said: "Why is to that the British government, having had its tolegraph system for twelve or fifteen years, paying the operators half the salary, with a system placed in an open country, in a small area, thickly populated, costing about one-quarter the cost of our system to maintain, why was it that that government had resisted the attempts to lower the shilling rate? And why has the Postmaster-General, after resisting the attempt for a year and a half, finally agreed to only a slight reduction? It was because the receipts of the system lacked $100,000 of paying the interest on the cost of the plant, at 3 per cent."

THE ALASKA LEASE.

Awarded to the North American

Commercial Company.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] Secretary Windom has directed a lease to be made with the North American Commercial Company of New York and San Francisco, for the exclusive privilege of taking fur seals upon the islands of St. Paul and St. George, Alaska, for 20 years, from May 1st.

This company made three proposals for

This company made three proposals for the privilege. The one accepted by the Secretary is known as bid No. 11, and differs from the other two in being an offer without conditions. Among other things, the company agrees, as far as may be practicable and consistent with its interests, to encourage the dressing, dyeing and marketing of sealskins within the United States. The annual revenue to the Government under this lease, on a basis of 100,000 seals per annum, will be about $1,000,000, as against about $300,000 under the present lease to the Alaska Commercial Company. Following are the names of the directors: Lloyd Tevis, Henry Cowell, Mathias Meyer and Isaac Liebes, all of San Francisco; Albert-Miller of Oakland, Cal. David O. Mills of New York is said to be a member of the company. The capital stock is $2,000,000.

of the company. The capital stock is $2,000,000.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—The News says: "The news of the lease of the Alaska seal islands to the North American Commercial Company of New York and San Francisco was discussed with a good deal of interest by citizens. A Chicago company, with the same name, was organized in Chicago and expected to secure the seal islands contract. All the Chicago members of the corporation were in Washington, and the inference drawn from the news received a few days ago is that they may have made a combination with the namesake company. Color is gived to the rumor from various sources, but nothing will be definitely known until they return.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] Commander McCails of the United States ship Enterprise in an interview today made a partial denial of the statements of his officers and men mentioned in these dispatches last night. He said he was not afraid of the result of an official investigation when one is made.

About the cutting down of Walker with his sword, he said it was true. Walker came on board drunk, ran wild about the decks and shouted: "I was a rebel and fought two years in the war, and I haven't got enough fighting yet. I'm not afraid of the biggest man on board, you blasted elug, and I won't keep quiet. No I won't." The man refused to listen to reason, and McCalla finally went to him himself. Walker tried to strike him, and McCalla cut him d wn. The surgeon's record shows that the wound was on the back of the bead, an inch and a half long and extending to the bone.

McCalla entered a denial of several other reported incidents, and said the story about Lady Playfair's coachman was an absolute lie. He asked whether his action in censuring Chief Engineer Entwistle for using sait instead of fresh water in testing boilers was not justified. McCalla allowed the reporter to go forward among the men, and they, with one or two exceptions, coincided with the printed statements that the voyage had been one of great brutality. IRRIGATION.

THE RECLAMATION OF ARID ANDS IN THE WEST.

Vast Importance of the Subject-What Water Will Do-Methods of Irrigation in Vogue-"Water Is Everything"-The Interest and Daty of the Government, never be a profounder difference than will be engendered by the thing it-self. The eastern farmer irrigates his cabbage and tomato plants when he cabbage and tomato plants when he first transplants them, His wife irrigates her flowers. The city gentleman irrigates his lawn. But the idea of watering a whole farm—not a New England 'patch,' but a western ranch of from fifty to fifty thousand acressems a financial absurdity. What the eastern farmer could not produce without such expensive cultivation he would say was not worth producing. Equally incredible will seem farming without irrigation to the generation now growing to manhood over a large now growing to manhood over a large part of the Pacific Coast. To them it part of the Pacific Coast. To them it will seem an absurdity not to have the water as fully under your own control as the land. They would not want to cultivate land if they had to take chances on there being neither too much nor too little rain.

What would surprise the eastern farmer still more, if he knew it, is that thousands of acres of land, intended for nothing but hay and pasture, are not only irrigated from ditches a dozen miles long, but misst first be leveled down with road-scrapers, and often the grading costs $25 an acre. This, however, applies only to res, and often the grading costs $25 an acre. This, however, applies only to certain forms of irrigation. My present purpose is to describe a number of different ways of irrigation which I have seen exemplified on a large scale.

The simplest plan is with a street-sprinkler. It is profitable on certain crops of high value per acre. For irrigating trees and vines the spray may be taken off the wagon and a straight stream conveyed by a short hose to the roots. I have seen vineyards of 100 acres watered in this way. It is chiefly used in tiding young vineyards and orchards over the first year, on land which thereafter will need no irrigation. It always struck me rather combined the roots. tion. It always struck me rather comtion. It always struck me rather com-ically to see a street-sprinkler mean-dering over a field, 30 miles from the nearest town, as if it had got lost and was groping about and trying to find its way back to its native haunts.

In such case the original source of the water may be a well or a mountain canon. I confess it still staggers me to see the miles of iron pipe, through which a stream of irrigating water must often be carried from the mountain spring to the hearest field, whereon it is to be used. A two-inch pipe, by the time it is laid, costs anywhere in the neighborhood of one where in the neighborhood of one thousand dollars a mile.

Wherever the water comes from, it is usually conveyed into a tank or a reservoir, and then piped or ditched about over the farm-wherever needed.
A mand pump is a rarity in Southern California. A windmill pumps the water into a high tank, which gives it the pressure needed for sprinkling. Hydrants are placed at the house, at the barn, in the garden, in the orchard, and at other points. With plenty of hose the fire protection is admirable. The farmer's wife is as well off as her city cousin in the matter of water conveniences.

Running through iron pipes near Running through iron pipes near the surface of a blistering-hot soil, the water gets warm, not to say hot, and so it does standing in the tank over the well. When wanted for drinking, the surface of a blistering-hot soil, the water gets warm, not to say hot, and so it does standing in the tank over the well. When wanted for drinking, it is put into a porous earthen jar, called an oila, and the evaporation of the large part which soaks through the jar cools the contents. Always in the morning and nearly always throughout the day, you can get a drink as the same than the same thad the same than the same than the same than the same than the sa out the day, you can get a drink as cool as, the stomach ought to have. Sometimes a barrel, covered with a cloth kept wet, is used for the same points on the farm is sometimes carried from the hydrants through ditches which run along the highest parts of the ground. These ditches are the simplest possible in construction. They go winding about like natural streams. Sometimes a furrow of the large farm-plow answersevery purpose. For the capillaries of the circulation the furrows made between the rows of vegetables in cultivating them are regetables in cultivating them are quite sufficient. When you have irrigated a few rows, a hoeful or two of arth applied to each furrow stops the water from them, and then the dam is removed farther down the main stream and more rows are irrigated in the and more rows are irrigated in the

and more rows are irrigated in the same way.

The method of irrigating trees is different. A circular depression, with a raised rim, is made about the tree. In a large orange orchard this is done with a machine—a kind of complicated scraper dragged around each tree by horses. The saucer thus formed may be fifteen or twenty feet, but is usually much less, in diameter. The water is turned into it from a hose or through a surface ditch. An orange grove never looks prettier than when thus prepared for irrigation. Sometimes, instead of the circular basin about each tree, small ridges are thrown up midway between the rows, in both directions. This makes a larger irrigated surface,

This makes a larger irrigated surface, and, of course, requires more water.

All these methods of irrigation are smply extensions of ordinary garden watering. I have seen two other quite different methods in operation. One of them is the simplest and cheapest, the other the most complicated and ex-of them is the simplest and cheapest, the other the most complicated and expensive of all.

For the former nothing is done except to dig a large ditch through the field, as near the middle as is consistent with its following sufficiently high ground, or between two fields, if both are to be watered from it. Through this ditch, or zanja, a slow stream of water is kept running. It soaks into the ground and percolates, or "seeps" through it and thus sub-irrigates the whole field without any lateral ditches. Of course, this occurs only in peculiar soils. Its best exemplification is in Fresno and Tulare counties, California. Sometimes a single ditch, nearly straight, will in this way irrigate 160 acres.

The other method is avently opposite.

straight, will in this way irrigate 160 acres.

The other method is exactly opposite. The whole field is flooded. Headgates are placed along the main ditch, and from every head-gate a dike or levee is run across the field. Levees are also run along the sides, one of them forming the outside of the ditch. If these levees ran at right angles, a field thus prepared for irrigation would look, for all the world, like a huge printer's case. The levees may be two to four feet high. The intervening spaces are called "checks." and may contain any amount of land. I have seen 1000 acres cut into checks of from one to ten or twenty acres. I did not see how it could items.

A FAMOUS CASE.

A FAIR WOMAN ACQUITTED OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

All on Account of $15-A Great Occasion in Judge Van Doren's Courtroom-The Verdict Unanimous.

There was an unusual stir about Judge Van Doren's courtroom yesterday afternoon. The drawing card was the trial of Mrs. Eugenia K. Holmes WHAT is there in the citizens' plat- of Los Angeles on the charge of emform to which any good Republican bezzlement, preferred against her by the Star editor.

Mrs. Holmes is a newspaper writer of some note. Her articles are of a descriptive character, and she acts as a regular correspondent for several prominent journals. She is a blonde given a series of resolutions which and far more eyes were cast on her during the proceedings by judge, jury, attorneys and spectators than upon any of the other interested parties in

Now we find the Prohibition impracticables with the Democrats, now with the Republicans. Now you see it and now you don't.

The "Peoples party" means the solid Prohibition vote with what Republicans they can collect, who as yet do not understand what the citizens' ticket means.

All of the star, to write up several of the villas of the town where boarders are entertained. Ten deliars was to be charged for each article, and it was mutually agreed that the writer was to receive 50 per cent. of the entire amount paid for the work. Among the places written up were W. E. the places written up were W. E. Cooley's, Mrs. Bang's Arroyo Vista, Howard Place, Dr. Shumway's Sanitarium and Mrs. E. B. Dexter's. Each more. There appears to be a demand not only for acreage property, but for residence property.

The part of the platform which will rest interest some is that relating to dued to $5.

duced to $5.

Mrs. Holmes, it appears, wrote the articles. They were published in the daily Star, and later appeared in the annual edition. After their appearance in the daily edition, Mrs. Holmes called on Mr. Vail and asked for her share of the money. In fact, she said five or six times, but the cash was not forthcoming. Being professedly badly busy place it is. Mr. Scoyille was defendant of the charge against her.

Attorney Rossiter then took the floor. He also had books at hand that touched on embezzlement, and his editions seemed to be more complete than those Attorney McLachlin read than those Attorney McLachlin read remained there for two days. Since then I've been on the mend. Short walks and sun baths on the veranda were followed by tours about the grounds. Now I can walk three miles at a stretch without feeling tired. I don't look much like a dead or dying man now, do I? Well, I don't feel like one, and I gladly give the Raymond and its wonderful climate credit for what I consider a remarkable recovery." Plenty of others in the house could offer similar testimony.

THE WEBSTER. The number of regular guests was largely increased yesterday by visitors who were out from Los Angeles and from other near-by points for the day.

The Native Sons were disappointed last evening, owing to the non-appearance of Grand Orator Tuttle of that order. A mistake, however, had arisenfrom Mr. Tuttle's letter, which reads: "I will be in Los Angeles Thursday, March 6th." The date had been overlooked. A pleasant joint meeting of Ramona and Los Angeles Parlors was held, however, and they adjourned to meet Mr. Tuttle next Thursday evening.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by the S. M. Perry Company. The purposes of the incorporators is to carry on a general gas fixture and plumbing business, manufacturing appliances for conducting gas, water and steam; constructing and erecting appliances for electric works, etc. The amount of capital stock is $100,000, of which $60,000 has been subscribed, Mr. Perry having subscribedefor $65,000. Los Angeles, Sattenay, March I, 1890.

Nothing succeeds like suce as, and success is never obtained except by hard and persistent work. We were not always have 28 d. ferebut stores combined under our roof; we did not always have the army of cierks that at present are necessary to handle our large business, for we were once small so small that the big fellows of that day passed us by with scorn; they took no notice of us; we weevery insignifeant in their eyes, and not worthy of being a rival on account of our size, but we have grown since; we have bad a fabulous growth in eight short years; we have built up an establishment to which the citizen point with pride, as the one and only pince at which they, their wives and the rehildren can trade with entire confidence. Honest, puright dea ing. Right goods at proper prices, and strictly cash transactions, fostered our growth; public approval and confidence protects it, and the high prices of the old fogies makes the future even more promising; we are now making extens we improvements, expedding thousands of dollars to enable us to bande a grea er variety of goods and are busy all day long, while the old fogies cry "hard times". It is a seilous question to the old fogies how we do it; they think we must possess a certain charm. The fact is we do.
